

Although all of the GitHub commits are under one account, we want to ensure that it is known that all group members worked on the code for this project. We found it easier to meet up to discuss and work on code together on one computer rather than missing each other's updates to the code by working on it separately. We enjoyed working on this project and found that this was the best way for our group to succeed. Thank you!